The Wrightorian

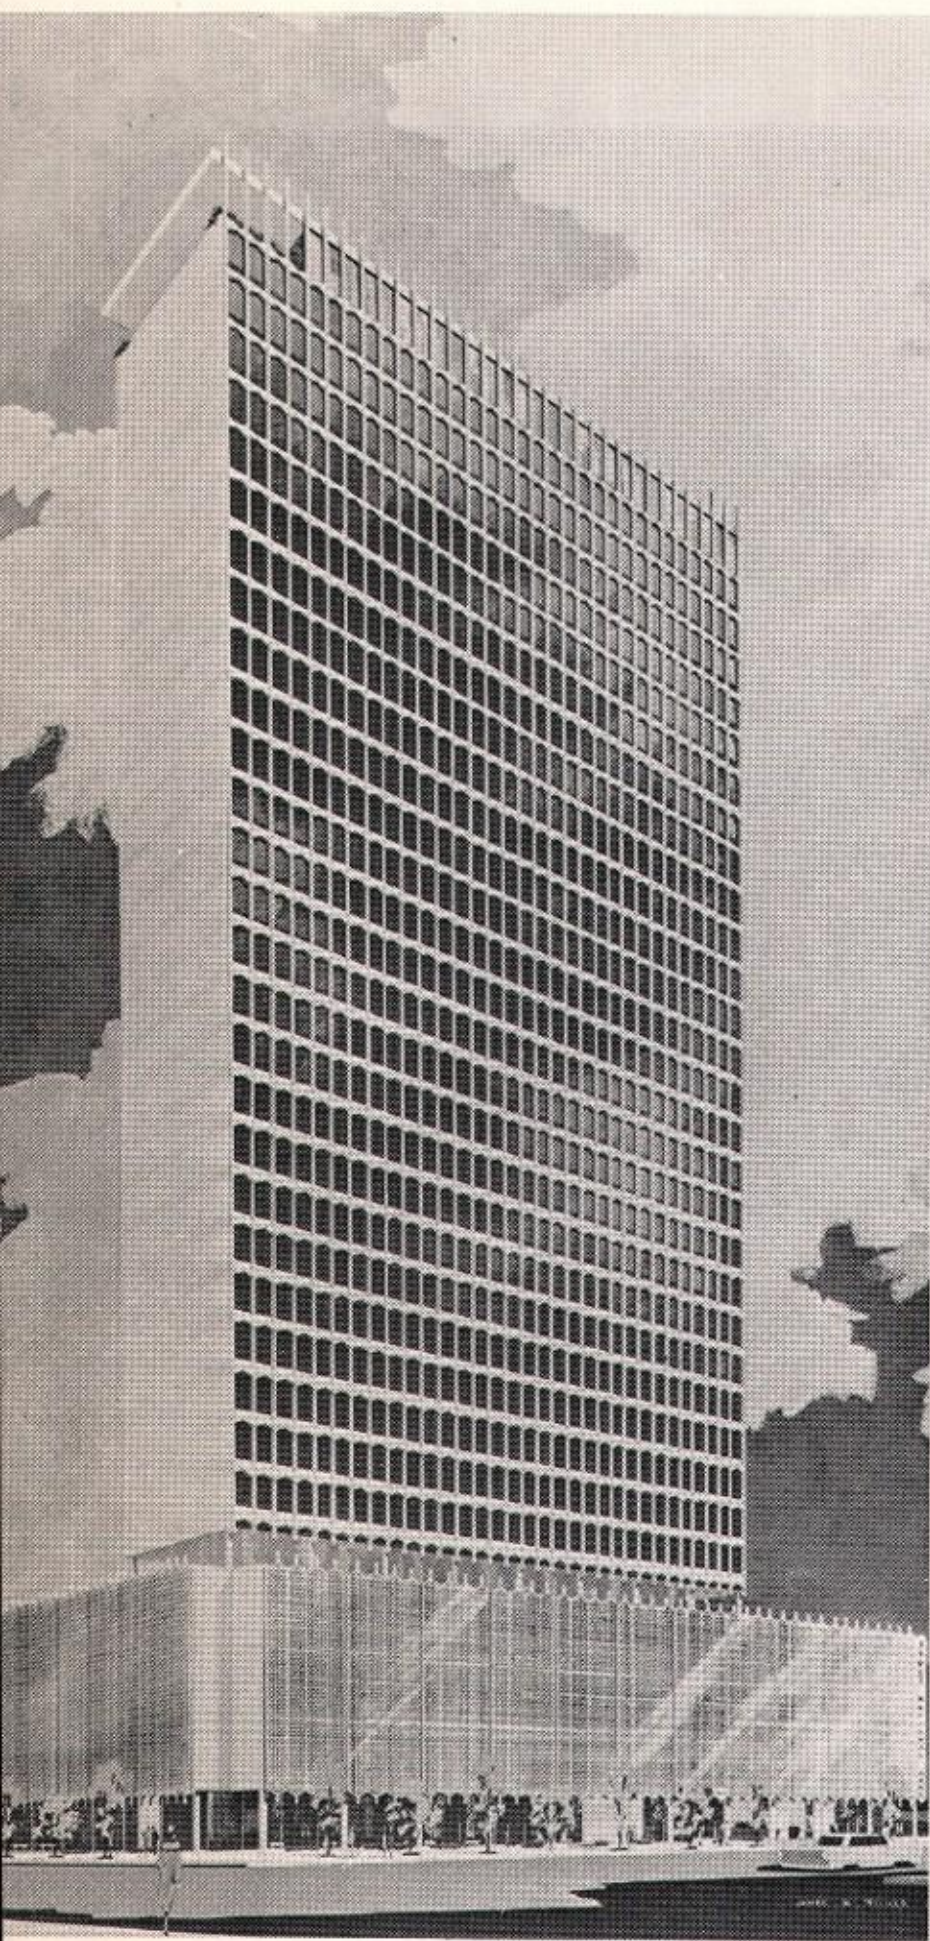

Julius T. Wright School for Girls
Mobile, Alabama

Foreword

A project is sound only insofar as its components have been handled and finished by a master. The Wrightorian 1967 attempts to show the progress made in the building of a sound education at Julius T. Wright School for Girls.

Administration

Mrs. Myrtle Harris Boazman

Dear Girls,

You selected as your theme for the school year, "Building." I think you chose well because we are always engaged in the process of building, whether it be something that is visible to the eye, or the intangibles used in structuring the "life good to live."

Here at Julius T. Wright School for Girls, where we are concerned with the building of the best in young womanhood, we are ever mindful that as we build we should use freely of the intangible materials of faith, kindness, gratitude, humility, appreciation, sincerity, patience, loyalty, integrity, charity, and truth.

We know that a generous mixture of these intangibles will produce "character," the basic material needed in the making of fine young women.

Look upward in the building of your life and know that the Master Builder is always ready to guide you in your choice of building materials.

Fondly,

Myrtle Harris Boazman

Azalea Trail Representatives

Curtsying representatives are Pam Stimpson, Hartley King, Queen Noel, and Frances Jensen.

The campus is beautified by flower-like antebellum gowns.

Pam Stimpson joined Queen Noel in being a finalist.

Azalea Trail Queen Noel Elizabeth Ladd

The feeling is sooo strange but WONDERFUL!

Daylight and uniform don't lessen the surprise.

Her Highness, Queen Noel.

Queen Noel shares her replica made by Sarah.

We're the number one clean group on campus.

I hate to tell you but you made a 99.9 on your last exam.

Laughs Backstage

Hold everything my nose is itching!

What MAN?????

You mean you wear a shoe size 11???

I told you this show would be a BOMB!

Out Front -- Food, Fun, Fashion

Oh, PITT! a run.

Yea, I'll drink to that!

Go, Go, Go with Cheerios!

Whose got the BRAIN????

Here We

Boy! I LOVE this DRINK.

Shall we dance?!

Hold still, I'll get the knife out in just a second.

Mrs. Williams, we have a slight difference of opinion about that math test.

And when I say the magic words, my ring finger will reappear.

And this is the wine cellar.

Go Again

Don't rush me! I'll find psychology under "s" yet.

You mean we have to sell the programs for Commencement?

The Academic Side

Louise shows her talent as a student speaker.

Hartley shows the proper way to clean up after a chemistry experiment.

Clara questions that point.

Jessica gives her views to the class.

Nita studies quietly in the library.

The Science Club listens attentively while on a field trip.

Ruthie answers a question from a fellow classmate.

The Art Club signs in while on a field trip.

Kindergarteners learn about people of different countries by wearing native costumes.

Learning to read music from Mrs. Thomson is fun.

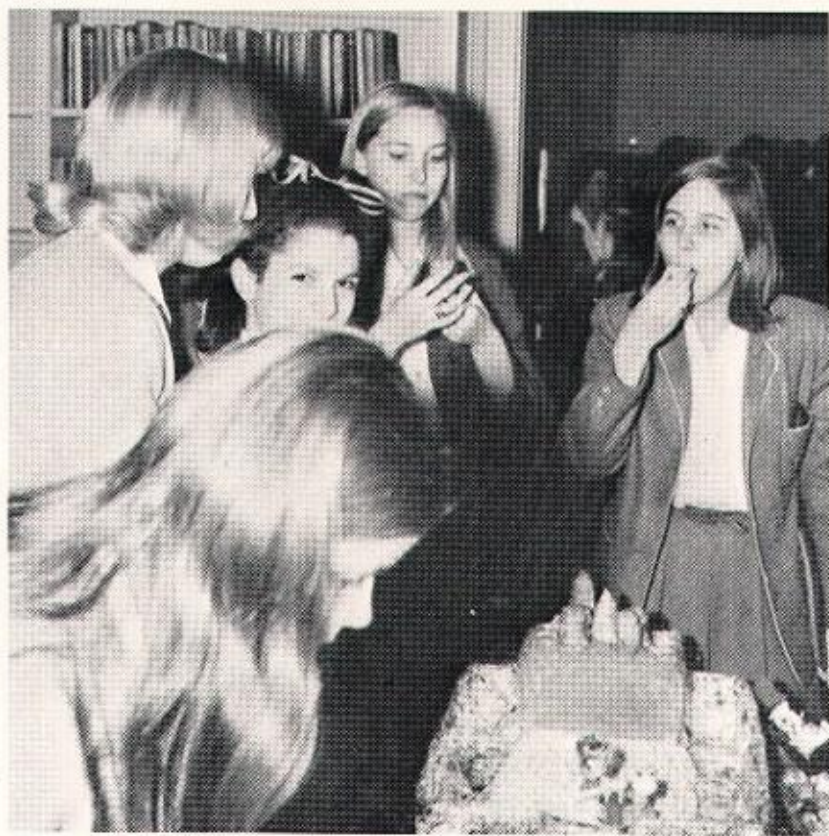

During exams students are allowed to study in the cafeteria.

Robin stays after school to finish her biology project.

Laboratory demonstration is observed by Science Club members.

Juniors enjoyed eating the Emerald City castle towers from their cake at the Birthday Book Party.

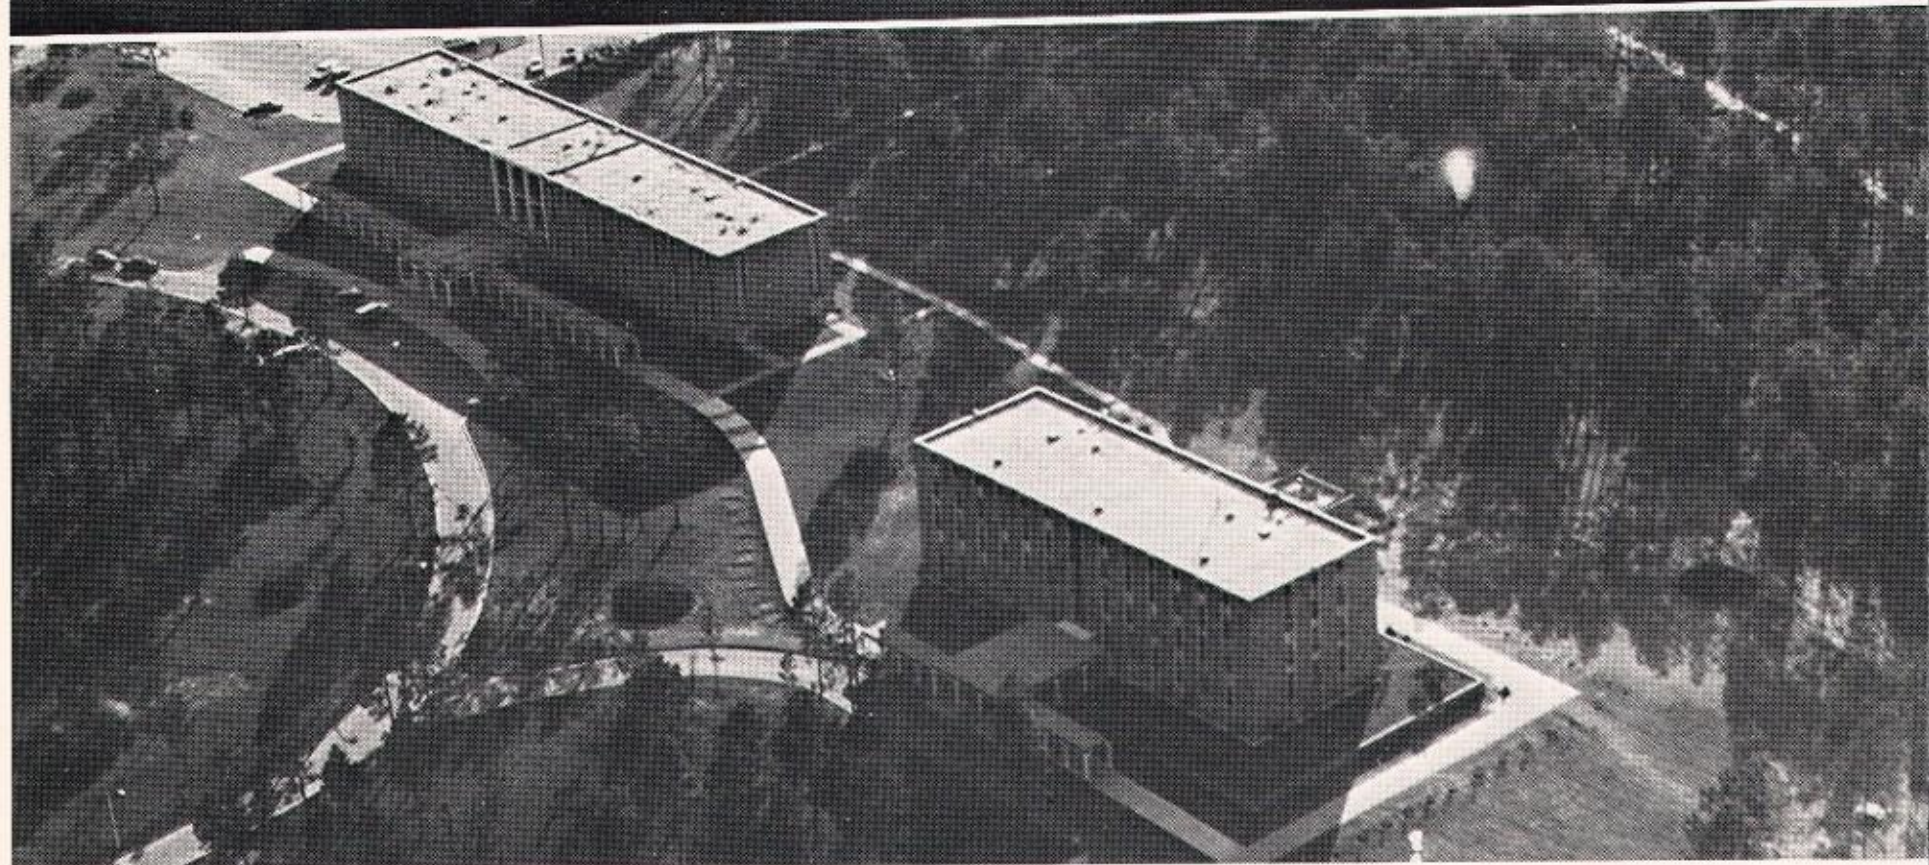

Pam and Noel show the proper way to stand when modeling.

Ruthie shows Miss Rollins how much the Student Council appreciates her sponsorship.

Blakely explains to Ginny how cord is made from paper.

Associations

Many Are Honored

Mary shows Good Citizenship pin awarded her by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Samuel H. Eichold award is given to Elizabeth Ward for outstanding service to the Library.

Susan Buerger received the trophy won by the Maroon Team for 1966-1967.

The award for the highest average in American History is given to Ruthie Strauss by Mrs. Ernest Edgar.

by Special Recognition

Mary Lou announces in surprise that she received the Good Citizenship Award.

Blair Aldridge is named Good Citizen of the Sixth grade.

Four students are honored by being tapped into the National Honor Society.

Mrs. McDuffy Turner receives first annual award given to the mother of a Wright alumna showing continued interest in the school.

Sportsmanship Is

The spirit of Play Day is shown through the cheerleaders.

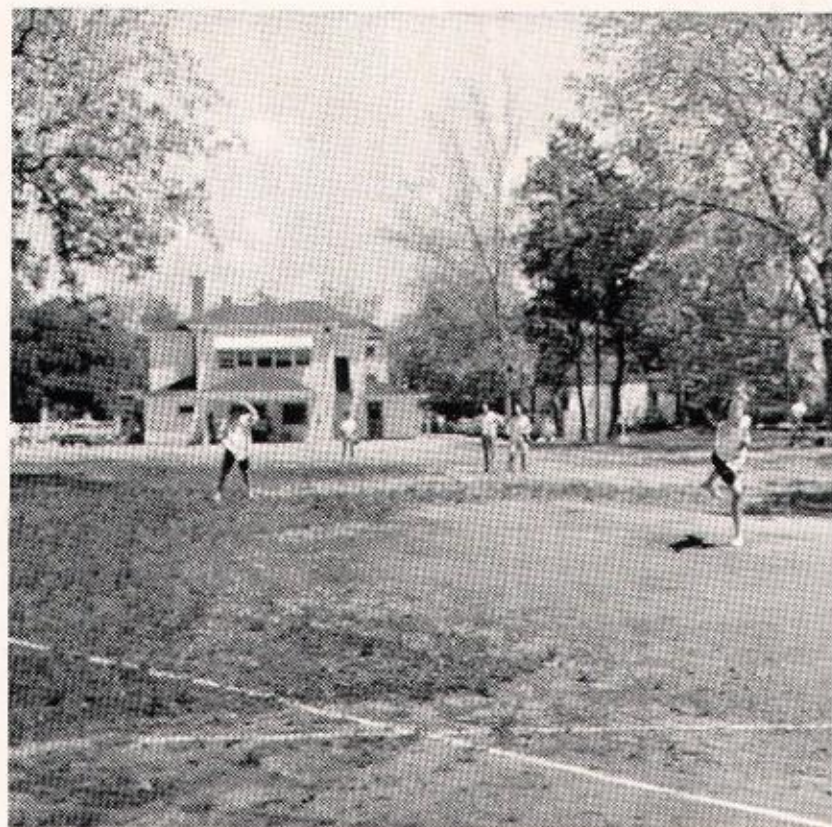

Maroon Team cheerleaders rally their forces.

One of the main events of the day is the softball game.

The Jolly Gray Giant.

Characteristic of Playday

Friendliness at Play Day is having buddies.

The Maroon Devil.

Looks of anxiety express students' concern over rival softball game.

Tela uses her strong arm to help her side win.

Competitive sports is the keynote of Play Day.

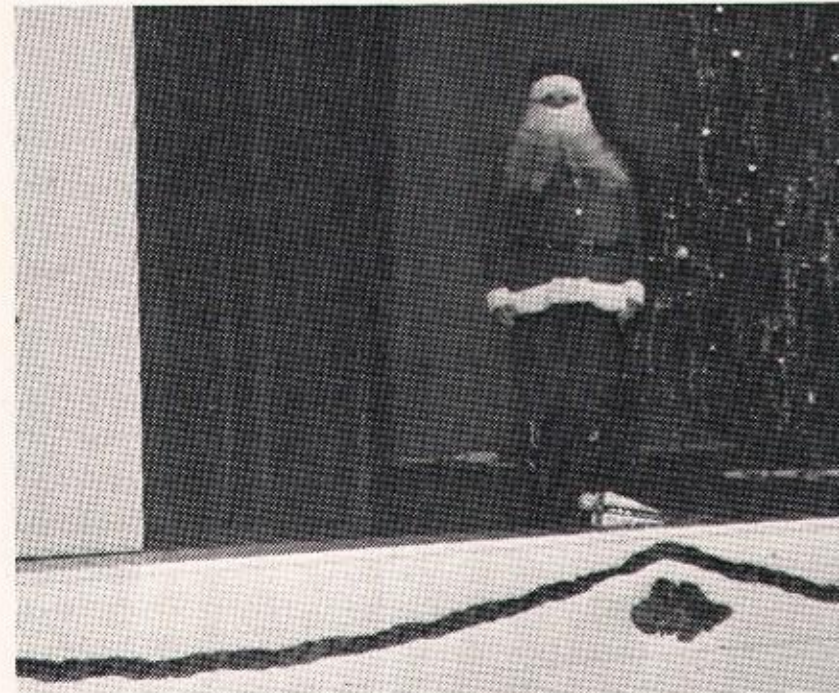

Christmas Happiness

The Alumnae Tree where Senior Balls of past years are hung bring back Christmas memories to visiting graduates.

Susan and Mary watch Ruthie light the School Candle . . . Christmas 1966!

With his jolly laugh, Santa again puts in an appearance at the Student Council Christmas Assembly.

Seniors plant and decorate a growing Christmas Tree and dedicate it to Mrs. Boazman.

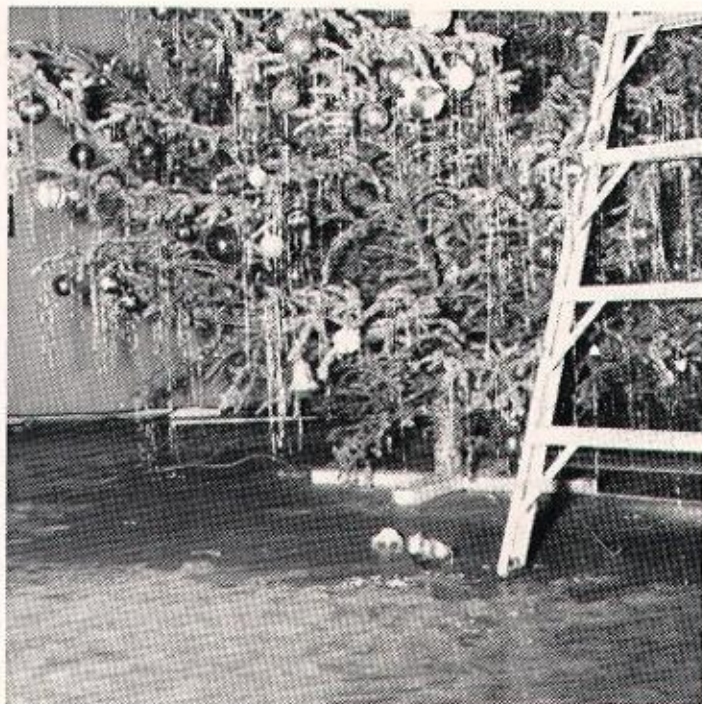

Prevails Everywhere

Each girl contributes her part to the decorating of the school Christmas tree.

Kindergarteners tell Santa all their "secret" wishes when he visits them at Christmas.

A shattering experience.

With candles and red bows, Seniors present "The Bells of Christmas" at the Christmas Sing.

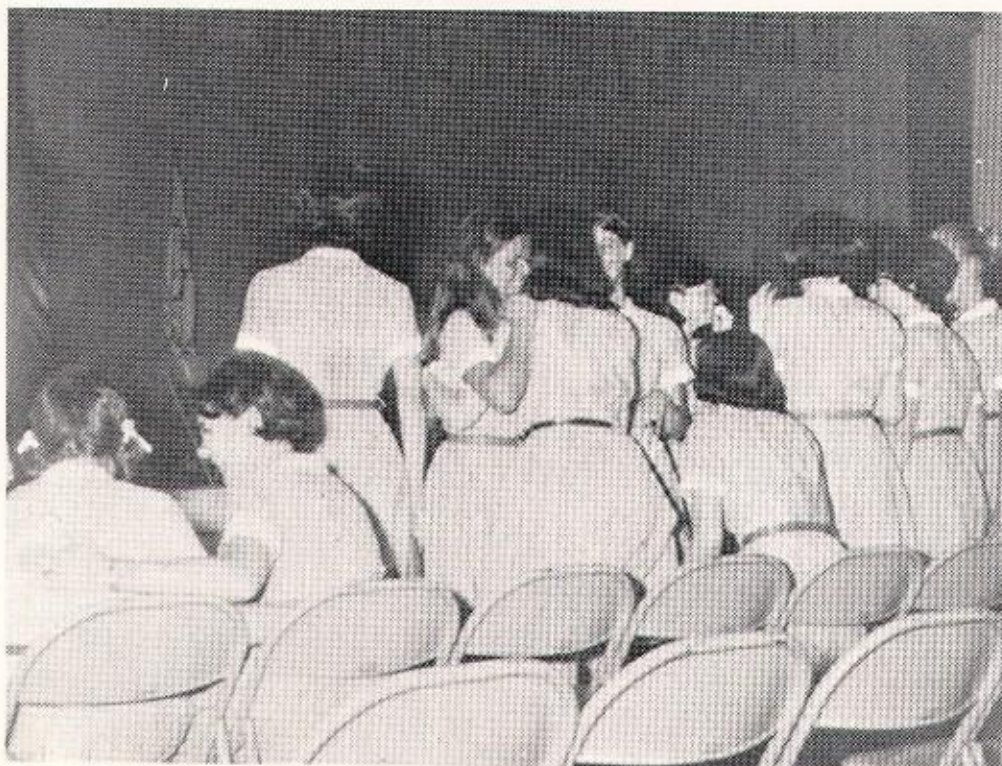

Anytime Is the Wright Time . . .

Second Graders prepare for the night of ghost and goblins.

Bookworms celebrate the beginning of summer.

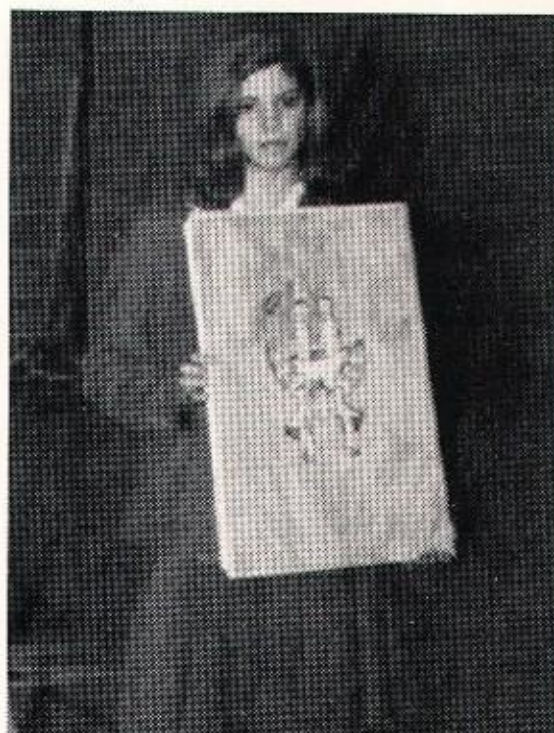

"Little Sisters" say good-bye to their graduating senior.

Kindergarteners prepare for a Thanksgiving feast.

lissa and Mrs. Kelly recreate the story of the "Littlest Angel".

Melissa uses pictures drawn by Mr. Kelly for the assembly.

Easter has many surprises for the young at heart.

for Celebrating

The Spirit of Wright

Becky gives a smile, showing her happiness as a graduate.

Mary Lou tries to fool her date at the graduation party.

Nancy and Polly enjoy good food and drink at the Birthday Book Party.

Eighth-graders wait anxiously before cutting their cake.

s Shown by Parties

Liz has the honor of cutting the cake.

Nancy shows her date the modern rendition of the minuet.

Nancy and her date partake of the Fountain of Youth.

As a surprise, Seniors decorate "Mrs. Boazman's Christmas Tree."

Emma Alexander

Orebia Mathews

Elve McGrew

Betsy and Mary could well be portraying a scene from MacBeth as they prepare for the Birthday Book Party.

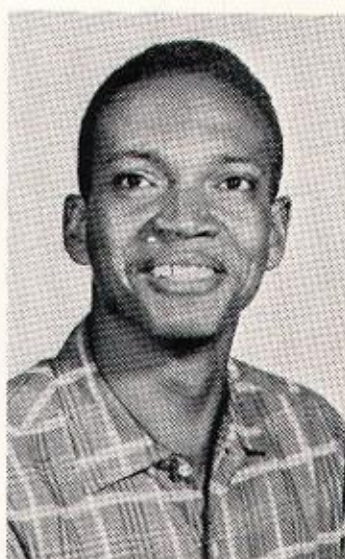

"Betcha can't eat one!"

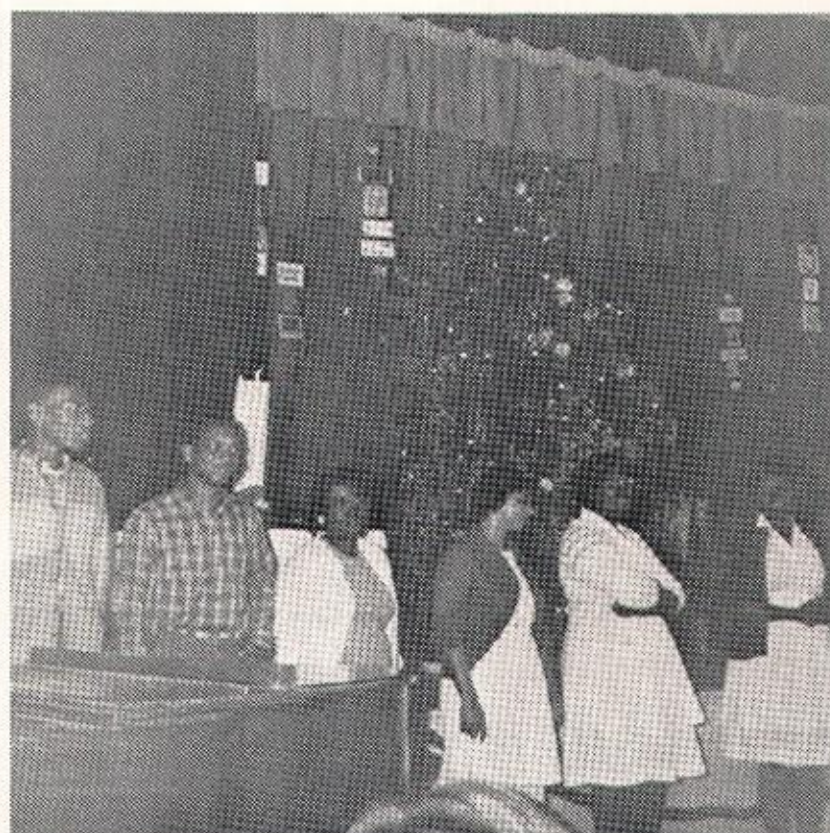

Louise McGrew

Elve's food is the best excuse for going off a diet.

William Robinson

The Janitorial Staff happily receive Christmas remembrances from the Student Council.

Elve, Emma, and Mary are prepared for everything from snacks to full-course dinners.

Mary Rogers

Renard Stabler, working evening hours at Wright, is perhaps the least known of all the Staff.

Many Different Guests

Mr. Wright Smith and granddaughter Karen show his artwork he has painted through the years.

A lesson in Japanese flower arrangement is given to Seniors in connection with their study of World Literature.

Kindergarteners receive a visit from the doctor who pronounces them all in good health.

Dr. McDavid delivers an inspirational address on building character.

Visit Wright Students

Kindergarten girls entertain brothers at a party in their honor.

This guest is always welcome at School.

Representing U.M.S. Seniors, Riley Smith invites Wright students to attend the upcoming Senior Class Play.

Mrs. Matthews is one of the many mothers who attended our Birthday Book Party.

Follow me, boys!

And now for a word from our valedictorian, class of 1969

Hooray! I got accepted to Wellesley!

Students Ar

You think that Dr. Seuss is weird.

But my finger is turning is turning green!

approximately ten seconds I'll turn into a pumpkin.

Typical Picnic Lunch.

Wright" Hilarious

Come visit our planet sometime.

I hate loud mouth bores.

Laughs With

You mean NOBODY gave to the Birthday Book Party?

That's odd; the total abstinence group doesn't serve drinks like these.

It's beautiful . . . what is it?

Hold it! No one leaves here without my autograph.

No thanks, I only dip snuff.

The Brass

Don't you recognize me? I'm a teacher here.

Now if it were only loaded . . .

Kid, what're you doin' reading MAD during SRA?

Do you think they'll notice if I play with two fingers?

I'll tell Mrs. B. if y'all don't let me play.

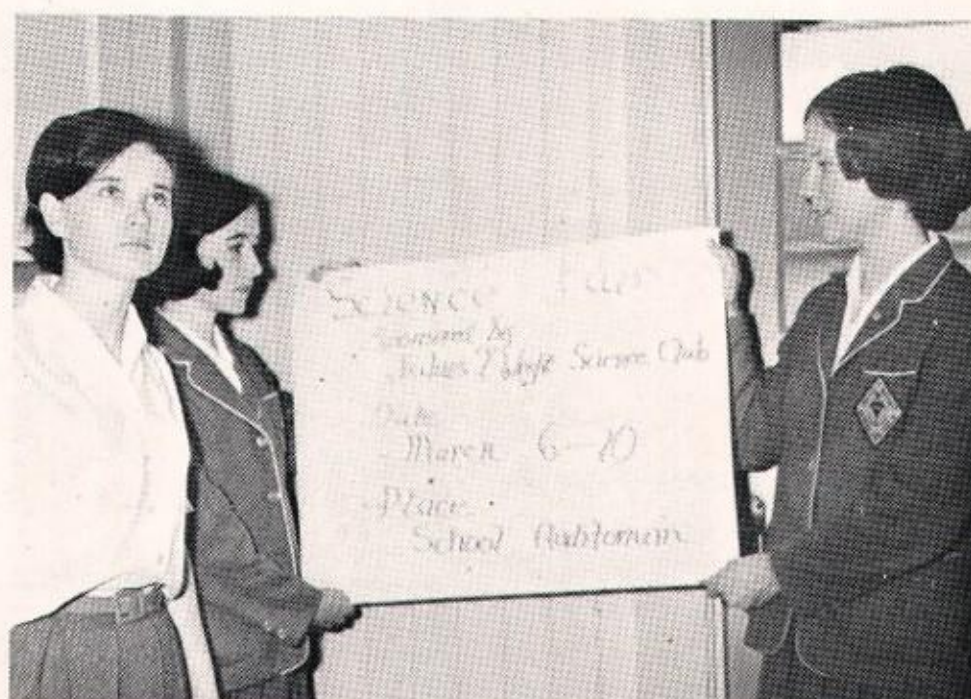

Lin tells of the uses of money given to the United Fund.

The Veterans' Day program is presented by the Speech Class.

The Exchange Club of Central Mobile, Alabama in conjunction with Beth and Damrell Threadgill presents Wright with a Freedom Shrine in memory of Cindy Davis.

Members of the Science Club advertise for their Science Fair.

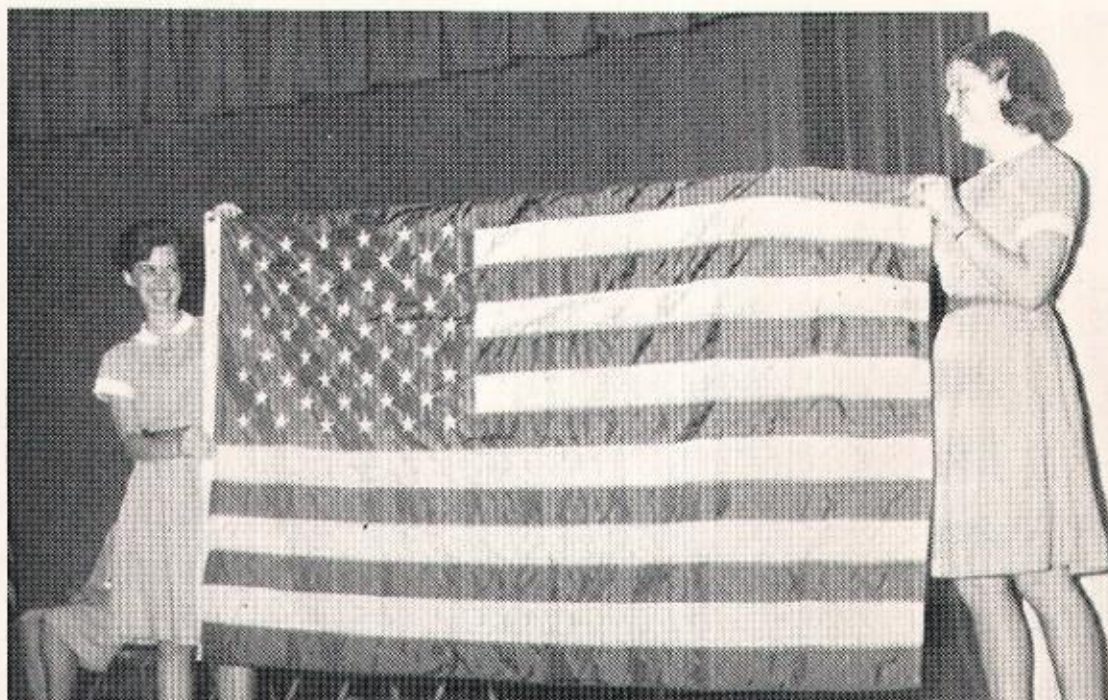

Wright is well represented in Mobile's Azalea Trail.

Mr. Walker informs the student body of the growth of Communism in Asia.

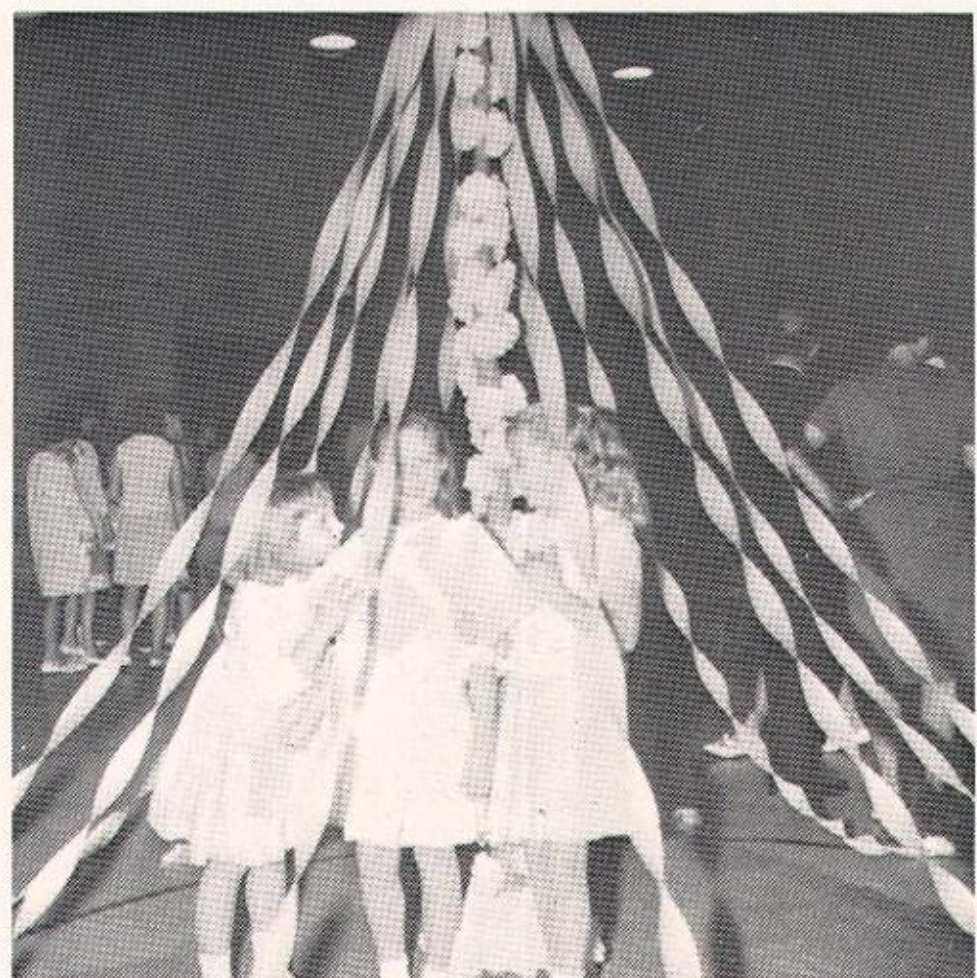

Civic Activities at School

Seniors present a flag and flagpole to the school as their class gift.

New Fashions Shown at Wright

Elaine shows a dress that is sure to be popular next spring.

Three young students chat by the Maypole before the show begins.

Mary Lou models one of the newest spring formals.

A dress for a party in the spring is modeled by Camille.

Students Elect New Leaders

Students, who were later elected to office, make election speeches.

Margaret surveys the campaign slogan of a student running for office.

Students help by campaigning for their favorite candidate.

Every wall, door, post and window bears a reminder of which candidate to vote for.

FOURTH COMMENCEMENT BALL

The Fourth Commencement Ball featured ten lovely graduates.

Class President Jan Hardy led Commencement Ball.

Student Council President Mary Lou Hampshire closed Ball.

Ten of the proudest men in Mobile with their ladies.

Only youth could do these dances.

Seniors and guests danced until wee hours.

Graduation ceremony of 1966 saw 10 new alumnae of Wright School.

Graduation 1966

Dr. Whiddon delivers graduation message.

Mrs. Boazman speaks to seniors.

Mr. William Stimpson welcomes seniors on behalf of the Board of Trustees.

Marshals for Graduation were the Misses Buerger, Stimpson, Root, and Donald.

An innovation at graduation was Margaret Matthews playing the piano.

Robin Pearson delivers valedictory.

Mary Lou Hampshire was named Best All-round Student.

ain Mary Lou walked to podium
Chairman's Award for Best Average.

Highly coveted Most Improved Average
Award went to Jan Hardy.

National Honor Society honored Margaret Matthews with the Award for Best Influence on the Senior Class.

Radiant graduates beam for the world.

Carolyn finds it hard to believe that she has achieved the status of an alumna.

Proud parents congratulate their "little girl."

New Alumnae Relish Their Status

Alumna dances?

Future graduates congratulate Margaret Matthews.

Parents and students are received by new alumnae.

Would You

You told me I'd lose weight when I became Advisor.

Don't confuse me with facts; my mind's made up.

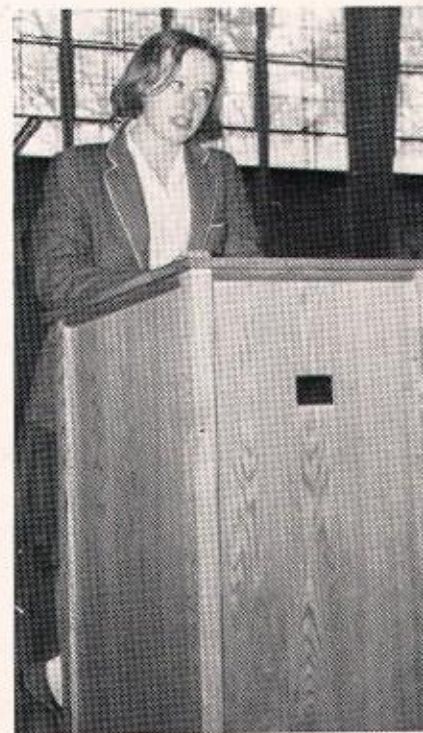

Quick, grab him!

Don't worry, honey; I'll be out in ten years.

Please, I'd rather do this act alone!

There's a ROACH in it!

Did someone mention the new headmaster is a bachelor?

Would you believe the invisible man?

I'm a little teapot . . .

Teachers Have Their Moments, Too!

In Closing

The Editor and Staff wish to acknowledge the courtesies and considerations shown by those generous persons whose efforts in our behalf so often go unseen or unheard.

We thank Mr. Ernie Crates and Inter-Collegiate Press for their inestimable assistance and patience; McEachern Studios, Mr. Ben Newbold, and Calagaz Photo Supply for professional capabilities.

Also, to members of the local constabulary force for investigation of our open-door policy, thank you.

Finally, therefore, under loving encouragement by our advisor we present our work—Wrightorian 1967.
